Big Four Called to Defend Gas Rationing

SENATE'S WAR QUIZ BOARD TO HEAR EXPERTS

Jeffers, Ickes, Henderson, Eastman Expected To Back F. D. R. Declaration

President Points To Necessity For Immediate Start Of Conservation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—The "big four" on rubber and gas were called before Congress today to further support President Roosevelt's declaration that nation-wide gasoline rationing must start December 1 as a military necessity.

Appearing before the Senate Truman committee investigating the war effort were Rubber Director William M. Jeffers, Price Administrator Leon Henderson, Petroleum Coordinator Harold L. Ickes and Defense Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman.

The keynote of their testimony was sounded in advance by President Roosevelt in a letter to Jeffers and Henderson and by the latter two officials themselves in radio addresses, in which they warned against any postponement of the nation-wide gas program.

Foes Map Action
Rep. Jed Johnson (D) Okla., who has been leading the fight for a 90-day postponement of nation-wide rationing to permit a test of voluntary tire conservation, conceded that it would be impossible to keep the rationing program from going into effect next Tuesday. Johnson said he would confer with other opposition leaders to determine "whether or not our group will quit the fight."

President Roosevelt told Jeffers and Henderson that "we must do everything within our power to see that the program starts December first because victory must not be delayed through failure to support our fighting forces."

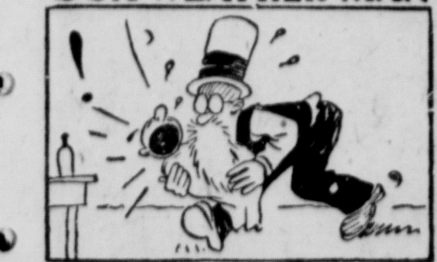

Crisis At Hand
The President recalled that the Baruch report urged immediate action to conserve rubber lest the nation face a "military and civilian collapse." And he added:

"Since then the situation has become more acute, not less. Since then our military requirements for rubber have become greater, not smaller. Since then many tons of precious rubber have been lost through driving not essential to the war effort."

"We must keep every pound we can on our wheels to maintain our wartime transportation system."

Both Jeffers and Henderson charged that "business as usual" (Continued on Page Two)

ENOUGH COFFEE FOR CITY NEEDS

Public Urged To Exercise Prudence In Purchases And Avoid Shortage

While the National Coffee association declared Friday that the coffee shortage prevalent last week might be extended into next month even though rationing starts Sunday, Circleville grocers declared that their stocks are sufficient to handle normal sales. At the same time, however, all grocers as well as coffee jobbers urged the public to exercise care in making purchases.

Each coffee stamp is good for five weeks and merchants are urging the public to not rush to the grocery store the first day or two in which rationing is effective.

The National Coffee association declared Friday that roasters of the country are trying against difficulties to provide adequate stocks to retailers. Enough coffee will be available during the life of the first coupon, the association said, but it warned that if everyone tries to redeem all of his stamps the first day or the first week there will not be enough to go around.

The association is suggesting that no one try to use a coupon before the end of December unless he is out of coffee. Families having several coupons are urged to use them only as needed, never buying more than one pound of coffee at a time.

Restaurant and institutional users who have failed to register for coffee are given one more day by the rationing office. Operators of restaurants and institutions jeopardize their chances of obtaining coffee supplies by failing to register at the rationing office. They must register by Saturday.

No coffee may be sold this week by retailers, the freeze period ending at midnight Saturday. All consumers not having Sugar (Continued on Page Two)

MERCURY DROPS TO 22 DEGREES FRIDAY MORNING

U. S. government thermometer at the Circleville disposal plant fell to 22 degrees at 8 a. m. Friday, and predictions that Winter weather had definitely arrived appeared to be true. The 22 reading followed a Thanksgiving afternoon high reading of 51 degrees. One year ago November 27 the mercury stood at 32 degrees at 8 a. m. after a high of 51 the previous afternoon.

REPRIMAND OF BOY LEADS TO GIRL SLAYING

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 27—Reprimanded by his father for kicking one of his sisters, Charles Ibbotson, 7, waited until his parents left the unheated shack in which the family lived, then fatally shot his sister, Rita, 10, the Lucas county sheriff's office reported today.

Younger children in the family told deputies that their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ibbotson, had left the shack on the outskirts of Toledo to drive into the city and sell a load of junk.

Charles was said to have held his father's rifle a few inches from Rita's head as she sat on the bed and shot her after saying, "good-by, Rita."

An elder sister, Lois, 11, who was outside, came running in and found her younger sister dying. The boy was being held for juvenile court action in the Child Study Institute, along with Lois, Kenneth, 5, and John, 4. A 14-month-old baby was taken to a hospital.

DOG DISCHARGED FROM ARMY AS WAR OBJECTOR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—Ambrose, a 2½-year-old Irish setter who enlisted in the Coast Guard two months ago, today was enroute home from the training school for dogs in Philadelphia, where he became a "conscientious objector" in his final test.

The dog was sent to Philadelphia for a "post graduate" course after he passed with flying colors his basic training of wall-scaling and lookout work at Water Gate, Conn.

In the final test at Philadelphia the Coast Guard dogs there were turned loose on a group of well-padded "spies" running across a field. All the dogs except one furiously attacked the "spies."—Ambrose licked their hands.

Ambrose's owner, Mrs. Julius E. Steiwer, of Washington, who had hung up a service flag for the dog, said "I guess I'll have to take this down. I suppose he is not suited for that kind of work. He is a dog of peace."

CITY'S POSTAL RECEIPTS CLIMB

Volume Of Business On Way To New Record, Hays Announces

Circleville postoffice business is well on the way to establishing a new record for pre-Christmas receipts, Postmaster A. Hulse Hays indicated Friday when he reported that volume of business is hitting a high peak earlier this year than in any year he can recall.

Extra help has been employed at the office, and more help will be hired during the next few days to handle incoming and outgoing mail and on the various routes. Already carriers on all routes are taking heavy loads of mail in city and county.

Mr. Hays said that because of the shortage of men available for extra help he has employed Miss Mary Curtin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Curtin, South Scioto street, as an extra clerk during the Christmas rush. Miss Curtin is the first woman employed at the postoffice in many years. Mr. Hays said that the last woman hired in the office was some years ago when Miss Anna Van Ness worked there. She was in the office when it was located in the Knights of Pythias building, North Court street.

October receipts at the office, the postmaster revealed, established a new all-time record for the month. Total receipts amounted to $3,917.14, almost $500 above the previous best October which was in 1941. Receipts that month totaled $3,466.25. Lowest October receipts at the office in recent years was in 1932 when $2,356.32 was reported.

The postmaster pointed out that many persons are heeding the appeal to mail early, especially to men in the various camps through the country. "Mail early to the men in service," the postmaster warned, "and be certain mail reaches them in time for the holidays." He cited danger of changes in address delaying mail to men in the camps.

ARMY FIGHTER PLANES SENT TO GUADALCANAL

High Command Rushes Arms For Both Offensive And Defensive Purposes

JAP ATTACK EXPECTED

Cannon Equipped Airacobras Harass Enemy's Ground Positions On Island

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—New army fighter planes today are in action over Guadalcanal, proof that the American high command is rushing supplies to the embattled island for both offensive and defensive purposes.

Latest battle reports revealed the presence in the Solomons area of an undisclosed number of army Airacobras and "Lightning" fighter planes, augmenting the work which has been done during the last four months by the navy's powerful Grumman "Wildcats."

The cannon-equipped Airacobras were reported by the navy in harassing attacks on enemy ground positions on Guadalcanal.

Previously the navy reported that the speedy, twin-engine "Lightnings" participated in a raid on Jap bases in the Northern Solomons and in their first action shot down three enemy Zeros.

Best proof that American forces control the skies over Guadalcanal was contained in a navy communiqué which stated that on November 25 one enemy plane dropped bombs South of Henderson airfield at 3 a. m. Some personnel casualties were admitted by the navy, but damage was believed to be slight.

It was the first enemy air activity reported over the island since American naval and air forces trounced the Japanese in the great November 13-15 battle, when 38 Jap ships were sunk and damaged.

While the Japanese are expected to renew their attacks to retake Guadalcanal, enemy forces have been unable during the last two weeks to move in reinforcements through the American naval and air blockade around the island.

This situation has left the American ground forces on Guadalcanal to continue their campaign of extermination of Japanese forces scattered in the mountains and jungles around the airfield.

MUSTANG SEEN AS BEST WAR PLANE OF YEAR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—Allied flyers in England today believe that the American P-51 Mustang plane will be the world's best fighter in 1943.

This was revealed by Maj. Thomas "Tommy" Hitchcock, famous polo player now attached to the U. S. Army air forces, who returned to Washington yesterday from his post as assistant military attaché for air in London, to report to the War department on his seven-months study of fighter planes now in action or in development.

Hitchcock, who was the youngest member of the famous Lafayette Escadrille in World War I, piloted a Mustang shortly before he left for home.

"It's best described as a 'pilot's airplane,'" Hitchcock said. "It's very fast and handles beautifully at high speeds. Flyers feel that they have always known how to fly the plane after they've been in it only a few moments."

Startling Innovations From U. S. Way of Life Seen for Next War Year

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—The Office of Price Administration took a look at the future today and found that consumers will not be able to buy as much as they want of anything during 1943.

What with rationing, a lack of manpower, concentration of production and a more critical transportation problem, the picture for the second year of war promises startling innovations from the nation's accustomed way of life.

Such "frills" as lay-a-ways, home-delivery service, style shows, gift wrapping and holiday decorations already are on the way out under the express approval of the OPA.

The "pinch" may become so tight that many stores will remain open only a few hours a day as a favor to customers.

"The plain fact is that, unless luxury services are eliminated today essential services will disappear tomorrow," OPA said.

"During 1943, no woman will be able to buy as much as she wants of anything."

"And this means not only radios and refrigerators, but food, clothing, drugs and other essentials. Stores will have too many customers and too few goods to sell."

Suggestions Offered

OPA offered a number of suggestions for coping with 1943's economic pattern:

1. Make up your mind to do cash-and-carry purchasing.
2. Organize car pools for neighborhood shopping.
3. Don't be surprised if stores reduce their hours to save fuel, electricity and manpower.
4. Bicycle to market if you can; get a large market basket or shopping cart on wheels.
5. Pay cash for everything you possibly can.
6. Buy carefully, since OPA has recommended that stores do away with "sales on approval" and "returns" of merchandise.

Must Be Jugglers

The OPA also warned that the American shopper will have to become proficient in juggling ration coupons and household budgets. Meat and dairy products are the next most likely candidates for rationing, with shoes and clothing probabilities.

In this connection, it was pointed out that some 500,000 persons may be left out in the cold on rationing. OPA estimated that this number have failed to obtain war ration book No. 1, good now for sugar and for coffee beginning next week.

War ration book No. 1 will have to be presented to local boards around the first of the year in order to receive the so-called "universal" ration book, now being printed, which will be used for rationing on a large-scale.

OPA said that persons who do not have the first book must file applications with their local rationing boards by December 15, in order to obtain one.

After December 15, applications may be made only for those born after November 15, or who, on that date, were out of the country, confined to an institution, or were being fed in organized messes of the armed services.

WIDOW WINS "MISS VICTORY" TITLE IN EAST

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—Mrs. Anita Hall, 25-year-old widowed mother of an eight-year-old son, was chosen today as "Miss Victory," bringing to a conclusion a six-week search by the New York Journal-American for Gotham's heroine of the home front.

Chosen from among more than 100,000 women war plant workers, Mrs. Hall who lives at 111-10 209th place, in suburban Hollis was presented with a $1,000 war bond by Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Jr., wife of the newspaper's publisher. In addition she will go to Chicago on December 5 to compete with 11 other sectional winners for the title of "Miss Victory" of the United States.

Hard Fighting Reported In Tunisia—British Push In Libya Slows Down

LONDON, Nov. 27—German troops took over the great French port and naval base of Toulon today, but met with stubborn resistance during which part of the fleet anchored there was scuttled.

First announcement of the occupation was made in a special communique issued by the German high command and picked up in London by radio.

Vichy radio, which is usually regarded as unreliable, said all 62 units of the French fleet based at Toulon had been sunk.

The Nazi statement said: "French troops offered no resistance to German and Italian forces."

The official German news agency DNB said that Toulon was occupied in order to forestall action by the fighting French forces of General Charles de Gaulle.

"Treacherous action" by these troops had been anticipated, Berlin claimed, as a result of which the occupation became necessary.

Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, Berlin announced, sent a letter to Chief Marshal Henri Philippe Petain "explaining the reasons which prompted him to take this measure."

When Germany overran unoccupied France as Hitler's first answer to the Anglo-American invasion of North Africa, Toulon was let studiously alone. Because of its peculiar position as anchorage of a major portion of the French fleet, Toulon was declared a restricted port and left under French sovereignty.

Ever since American and British troops landed in North Africa and obtained the collaboration of Admiral Jean Francois Darlan in carrying out occupational measures with comparatively light casualties, the French fleet at Toulon has been the subject of lively speculation.

Appeals were made to its officers and men to join with Anglo-American forces in North Africa. But stiff opposition from nearby axis guns, submarines and planes was regarded as inevitable if the ships hoisted anchor for the southward dash across the Mediterranean.

The German announcement gave no details of the scuttling, but the mere fact it was carried out at all confirmed previous views that the French navy, while undoubtedly pro-British, remained at least on the side of Darlan and was unprepared, therefore, to lend its services to the axis cause.

Germany's admission that "part" of the fleet was destroyed may prove to be an understatement. The French fleet assembled at (Continued on Page Two)

Military And Civilian Police Battle Two Hours With Colored Troops

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 27—Two persons were killed and at least 12 others were wounded when Negro soldiers rioted in the colored district of Phoenix early today.

Military and civilian police and sheriff's deputies waged a two-hour gun battle with the rioting soldiers before order was restored. Sheriff Lon Jordan reported.

Killed were a Negro soldier and a civilian. The wounded, including both soldiers and civilians, were rushed to hospitals for emergency treatment.

The civilian victim was identified as Robert Riley, 44, Negro, who was found shot to death at the wheel of his automobile. Identity of the soldier slain in the battle was not immediately available.

The sheriff said the disorders broke out at 10 o'clock (mwt) last night when Negro infantrymen from an army camp just inside the city limits quarreled among themselves and resorted to gunfire.

Squad cars of police and sheriff's deputies were dispatched to the scene and managed to quell the disturbance. Several Negro soldiers were wounded and a number of rioters were jailed, the sheriff reported.

Two hours later, the sheriff said, the Negro soldiers returned and opened fire on military and (Continued on Page Two)

CITY'S POSTAL RECEIPTS CLIMB

Volume Of Business On Way To New Record, Hays Announces

Circleville postoffice business is well on the way to establishing a new record for pre-Christmas receipts, Postmaster A. Hulse Hays indicated Friday when he reported that volume of business is hitting a high peak earlier this year than in any year he can recall.

Extra help has been employed at the office, and more help will be hired during the next few days to handle incoming and outgoing mail and on the various routes. Already carriers on all routes are taking heavy loads of mail in city and county.

Mr. Hays said that because of the shortage of men available for extra help he has employed Miss Mary Curtin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Curtin, South Scioto street, as an extra clerk during the Christmas rush. Miss Curtin is the first woman employed at the postoffice in many years. Mr. Hays said that the last woman hired in the office was some years ago when Miss Anna Van Ness worked there. She was in the office when it was located in the Knights of Pythias building, North Court street.

October receipts at the office, the postmaster revealed, established a new all-time record for the month. Total receipts amounted to $3,917.14, almost $500 above the previous best October which was in 1941. Receipts that month totaled $3,466.25. Lowest October receipts at the office in recent years was in 1932 when $2,356.32 was reported.

The postmaster pointed out that many persons are heading the appeal to mail early, especially to men in the various camps through the country. "Mail early to the men in service," the postmaster warned, "and be certain mail reaches them in time for the holidays." He cited danger of changes in address delaying mail to men in the camps.

MUSTANG SEEN AS BEST WAR PLANE OF YEAR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—Allied flyers in England today believe that the American P-51 Mustang plane will be the world's best fighter in 1943.

This was revealed by Maj. Thomas "Tommy" Hitchcock, famous polo player now attached to the U. S. Army air forces, who returned to Washington yesterday from his post as assistant military attaché for air in London, to report to the War department on his seven-months study of fighter planes now in action or in development.

The OPA also warned that the American shopper will have to become proficient in juggling ration coupons and household budgets. Meat and dairy products are the next most likely candidates for rationing, with shoes and clothing probabilities.

In this connection, it was pointed out that some 500,000 persons may be left out in the cold on rationing. OPA estimated that this number have failed to obtain war ration book No. 1, good now for sugar and for coffee beginning next week.

War ration book No. 1 will have to be presented to local boards around the first of the year in order to receive the so-called "universal" ration book, now being printed, which will be used for rationing on a large-scale.

OPA said that persons who do not have the first book must file applications with their local rationing boards by December 15, in order to obtain one.

After December 15, applications may be made only for those born after November 15, or who, on that date, were out of the country, confined to an institution, or were being fed in organized messes of the armed services.

Hard Fighting Reported In Tunisia — British Push In Libya Slows Down

LONDON, Nov. 27 — German troops took over the great French port and naval base of Toulon today, but met with stubborn resistance during which part of the fleet anchored there was scuttled.

First announcement of the occupation was made in a special communiqué issued by the German high command and picked up in London by radio.

Vichy radio, which is usually regarded as unreliable, said all 62 units of the French fleet based at Toulon had been sunk.

The Nazi statement said: "French troops offered no resistance to German and Italian forces."

The official German news agency DNB said that Toulon was occupied in order to forestall action by the fighting French forces of General Charles de Gaulle.

"Treacherous action" by these troops had been anticipated, Berlin claimed, as a result of which the occupation became necessary.

Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, Berlin announced, sent a letter to Chief Marshal Henri Philippe Petain "explaining the reasons which prompted him to take this measure."

When Germany overran unoccupied France as Hitler's first answer to the Anglo-American invasion of North Africa, Toulon was let studiously alone. Because of its peculiar position as anchorage of a major portion of the French fleet, Toulon was declared a restricted port and left under French sovereignty.

Ever since American and British troops landed in North Africa and obtained the collaboration of Admiral Jean Francois Darlan in carrying out occupational measures with comparatively light casualties, the French fleet at Toulon has been the subject of lively speculation.

Appeals were made to its officers and men to join with Anglo-American forces in North Africa. But stiff opposition from nearby axis guns, submarines and planes was regarded as inevitable if the ships hoisted anchor for the southward dash across the Mediterranean.

The German announcement gave no details of the scuttling, but the mere fact it was carried out at all confirmed previous views that the French navy, while undoubtedly pro-British, remained at least on the side of Darlan and was unprepared, therefore, to lend its services to the axis cause.

Germany's admission that "part" of the fleet was destroyed may prove to be an understatement. The French fleet assembled at (Continued on Page Two)

TWO KILLED AS SOLDIERS RIOT

Military And Civilian Police Battle Two Hours With Colored Troops

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 27—Two persons were killed and at least 12 others were wounded when Negro soldiers rioted in the colored district of Phoenix early today.

Military and civilian police and sheriff's deputies waged a two-hour gun battle with the rioting soldiers before order was restored, Sheriff Lon Jordon reported.

Killed were a Negro soldier and a civilian. The wounded, including both soldiers and civilians, were rushed to hospitals for emergency treatment.

The civilian victim was identified as Robert Riley, 44, Negro, who was found shot to death at the wheel of his automobile. Identity of the soldier slain in the battle was not immediately available.

The sheriff said the disorders broke out at 10 o'clock (mwt) last night when Negro infantrymen from an army camp just inside the city limits quarreled among themselves and resorted to gunfire.

Squad cars of police and sheriff's deputies were dispatched to the scene and managed to quell the disturbance. Several Negro soldiers were wounded and a number of rioters were jailed, the sheriff reported.

Two hours later, the sheriff said, the Negro soldiers returned and opened fire on military and (Continued on Page Two)

Toulon was a formidable force. The battleships Strasbourg and Dunkerque, both damaged in the Franco-British naval clash at Oran in July, 1940, are reported to have been fully repaired and were based at Toulon. Also there was the 22,000-ton battleship Provence, and a large number of cruisers, destroyers and submarines.

Dispatches from various sources indicated that Germans had long been running into difficulties at Toulon. The Moscow radio reported that Gestapo agent named Lieut. Kaiser had arrived there to begin a "purge" of dissident elements. All civilians as well as members of the crews of various warships in port were to be examined and classified as either "suspicious" or "reliable."

The broadcast said that Pierre Laval, now Nazi dictator of France, intended to take revenge upon French sailors whose "resistance" prevented the Germans from occupying Toulon at the outset. These measures were to have paved the way for transfer of the fleet to German bases.

Battle In Tunisia

Hard fighting continued in Tunisia, with emphasis on air battles and bombing assaults as allied ground troops closed in relentlessly on Bizerte and Tunis, and fanned out through southern Tunisia and towards the east coast in mopping up operations against small axis forces.

The German-Italian forces which were being pressed back on the strongholds at Bizerte and Tunis were reported to number 20,000 men, but large forces were believed to be mobilized on the Italian islands of Sicily and Sardinia, awaiting a chance to make the 150 mile jumps to the North African coast.

The British first army, supported by American and French troops, was reported to be within 10 miles of Tunis in one drive and 20 miles from Bizerte as a column drove on the port from the west.

Air Battles Destroyed

In air battles and bombing raids Thursday at least 22 axis planes were destroyed on the ground or shot down in combat. Allied losses were 7 planes but three pilots were saved.

In Libya the British eighth army apparently has slowed down in the pursuit of axis forces falling back on El Aghella. Today's communiqué said there was nothing to report on ground operations but told of renewed air raids on Tunis as well as on the Libyan ports of Homs and Tripoli. An enemy ship was hit at each port, one being left in flames and the other turning turtle after direct hits.

In the southwest Pacific Japanese forces on New Guinea were making the most determined sort of resistance to allied efforts to drive them from Buna. The enemy had strong positions and were fighting effectively as Australian and American columns closed in on the coastal base.

EIGHT OVERCOME AS GAS LEAKS INTO CHURCH

SEATTLE, Nov. 27—Eight persons were recovering today from the effects of gas fumes which leaked from the furnace of the Greek Orthodox Church of the Assumption at Seattle during special Thanksgiving Day services.

The fumes overcame the priest, a 13 year old altar boy and six parishioners. Presence of the deadly fumes was first noticed when Father Stephanos Phourides dropped unconscious during the services.

Second Lieut. Starato Pulakis who was attending the services summoned help. He also carried his mother and sister outside and returned inside the church to open windows and give first aid to other victims.

An ambulance enroute to the church crashed into a tree and private autos had to be used to take the victims to the hospital.

proponents are attempting to "mislead the people" and stated that the nation-wide program would definitely go into effect Tuesday.

Facts Are Simple

"The facts are simple," said Jeffers. "With only a trickle of new rubber coming in, with our synthetic rubber plants still in construction, we are going to have to get along on the rubber we have. That means that the vast majority of our 27 million passenger cars and five million trucks are going to have to run from now until mid-1944 on the tires now in use."

"That's the reason, and the only reason, for the entire rubber conservation program. That's the reason nation-wide gasoline rationing will go into effect December first. That's the reason for the 36-mile speed limit and for periodic tire inspection."

Jeffers said he wanted to assure every American citizen "with all the earnestness at my command that gasoline rationing is vitally necessary" to conserve rubber needed for the war.

Rubber of which his life raft was constructed saved Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker in the Pacific as it has countless others, he pointed out.

The rubber director reminded his listeners that the Baruch report said gas rationing is the "only way" of saving rubber and must be nation-wide because it is "wholly a measure of rubber saving."

THANKSGIVING COMES DAY LATE ON WEST COAST

SEATTLE, Nov. 27—Thousands of Seattle residents were to have their Thanksgiving turkey today, after a power failure disrupted service in widely separated sections of the Pacific northwest.

Service was interrupted yesterday just as many housewives were beginning to prepare the holiday meal, and those depending on electric stoves were without heat. Some families waited for power to be restored, while others gave up and ate their holiday meals at overcrowded restaurants.

Communication systems, radio stations and industrial plants were halted in Spokane, Wash., Portland, Ore., and other northwest communities. In some cities the power failure tied up street car service.

The interruption was caused by failure of a line between Seattle and the Grand Coulee power plant which overloaded other lines and blew out several automatic transfer switches.

THANKSGIVING HOLIDAY PROVES QUIET EVENT

Most quiet Thanksgiving in many years was the term applied Friday by Circleville and Pickaway county law enforcement agencies. Neither city police nor sheriff's deputies were called once Thursday to make an arrest or investigate an accident of any nature. Not a single report of any kind was written into records of the two offices.

There was much automobile traffic on all highways through the county, but mishaps were conspicuous by their absence.

Wayne township tax rates have been established by the county budget commission. Wayne's being the last figure to be determined for 1943 taxation purposes. JOHN KENNEDY GAINS "A" FOR EFFORT TO FIGHT

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—Fourteen-year-old John M. Kennedy, whose patriotism was stronger than family ties, was back home today after three futile attempts to enlist with as many different Canadian units.

John, son of Martin J. Kennedy the congressman, left his home last Monday afternoon and casually took a bus for Montreal. Standing five feet nine inches in his stocking feet, and weighing 140 pounds, he felt that just merely reading about the heroic exploits of America's fighting men wasn't enough for him.

So when he figured that his age was against him, despite his size and weight, he decided to follow the example of other youths who, "big for their age," chose to serve with our allies to the north.

But representative Kennedy, knowing the ambitions of his son in advance, notified Canadian authorities and when John tried to enlist in the Royal Canadian air force, giving his age as 17, he was politely refused. Similar, fatherly rejections met his attempts to join the famous Black Watch regiment and the Fighting French forces organized in the dominion.

Finally, with the advice that he might best serve democracy by completing his education at Fordham university, John returned home yesterday just as casually as he left, exchanging greetings with elevator and switchboard operators on his return as though he had just gone around the corner.

NATIVES SERVE WOUNDED MEN IN NEW GUINEA

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Nov. 27—In the jungle clearing a short way behind the Gona-Buna front there stands a crude hut which New Guinea natives built of Kunai grass.

Toward the hut comes a steady stream of natives bearing wounded soldiers. They are covered with mud to the waist from ploughing through swamp jungle paths.

The wounded men are Americans and Australians. All day long those natives come in a steady stream. More come through at night, the moonlight glistening on their wet bodies.

Inside the hut there is a crude operating table which the natives built. Beside the table, stripped to the waist, stand Captains Dr. Charles Lawrence, of Chicago, and Dr. Felix Schwartz, of Colorado. They operate for hours on Australians and American alike. By torchlight and to the tune of mortar shelling and the sharp whine of American Brownings and the deep-throated howl of Australian machine guns they wield their scalpels.

They work with deft hands and sure steady nerves, disregarding their own danger to minister to the wounded. They work swiftly. When one job is finished the patient is removed to make room for another. Repeatedly the boys ask that some pal be treated first. The soldiers and doctors continually give a remarkable demonstration of unselfish courage.

Ration book No. 1 must apply for this book before December 15 at the city hall office, the rationing board warned Friday. No coffee can be obtained until this book is held by the consumer, the board stated.

Rationing officials pointed out that even though the consumer may have too much sugar on hand he must apply for the War Ration book No. 1 before December 15 in order to purchase and coffee. The first 16 of the numbers in book No. 1 apply to sugar purchases and numbers 16 to 28 to coffee purchases. No. 27 is to be torn off by the dealer when the consumer buys his next pound of coffee.

War Ration book No. 2, which will be used for other commodities, will not be issued to any person who does not have book No. 1.

BOY DROPS BIG TURKEY WITH SINGLE SHOT

Bobby Grubb, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Grubb, can take his place in the ranks of Circleville's crack shots.

Bobby is employed by Dwight Steele, produce dealer. Thanksgiving eve Mr. Steele was preparing to chop the noggin off a big turkey when Mr. Turkey decided he wasn't going to cooperate. He took to the air and found a perch in a high tree.

Young Grubb was called to climb after the turkey, but the turkey found another attractive limb on which to perch. Giving up the chase, the youth obtained a .22 rifle, and shot the fowl through the neck. His boss said the job was a complete one, the turkey being struck exactly where the ax would have been applied.

KIDNAPING TO BE CHARGED TO BABY SNATCHER

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Nov. 27—

State's Attorney Harry A. Hall announced today he would file a charge of kidnaping against Mrs. Anne Tyrrell Lussier, accused in the abduction of 3½-month-old Gary Botsford, as soon as he had questioned the young woman on some points in her story.

He said he would recommend that she be held in bail of not less than $20,000.

Gary, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Botsford, was kidnaped Tuesday from in front of a Waukegan store, which his mother had entered to make a purchase, and was recovered 24 hours later in Zion, Ill.

Mrs. Lussier when arrested was about to leave the home of her sister, Mrs. Beryl Holcomb, carrying Gary in a large leather handbag. She had told her sister and the latter's husband, Andrew, that the baby was hers, and authorities absolved the Holcombs of any knowledge of the kidnaping.

State's Attorney Hall said Mrs. Lussier admitted burning the baby's clothes and procuring a new outfit for him. He added: "The fact that Mrs. Lussier destroyed the child's clothes is an important point. I believe it indicates an attempt to conceal the baby's identity."

Her first explanation of the kidnaping was that "I wanted a baby of my own." She said her husband, whom she named as Alfred Lussier, was a sergeant in the army, stationed at Fort Knox, Ky.

EIGHT OVERCOME AS GAS LEAKS INTO CHURCH

SEATTLE, Nov. 27—Eight persons were recovering today from the effects of gas fumes which leaked from the furnace of the Greek Orthodox Church of the Assumption at Seattle during special Thanksgiving Day services.

The fumes overcame the priest, a 13 year old altar boy and six parishioners. Presence of the deadly fumes was first noticed when Father Stephanos Phourides dropped unconscious during the services.

Second Lieut. Starato Pulakis who was attending the services summoned help. He also carried his mother and sister outside and returned inside the church to open windows and give first aid to other victims.

An ambulance enroute to the church crashed into a tree and private autos had to be used to take the victims to the hospital.

JOKE ON JAPS

SEATTLE, Wash.—The whole nation has long been aware of Washington's famous Willapa Harbor oysters. But now there's a laugh—and the joke's on the Japs. They furnished 'em. The present "Pacific" oyster, cultivated on 5,000 acres of tideland and yielding a harvest of a million bushels a year, was imported in 1928 from Japan.

proponents are attempting to "mislead the people" and stated that the nation-wide program would definitely go into effect Tuesday.

Facts Are Simple

"The facts are simple," said Jeffers. "With only a trickle of new rubber coming in, with our synthetic rubber plants still in construction, we are going to have to get along on the rubber we have. That means that the vast majority of our 27 million passenger cars and five million trucks are going to have to run from now until mid-1944 on the tires now in use.

"That's the reason, and the only reason, for the entire rubber conservation program. That's the reason nation-wide gasoline rationing will go into effect December first. That's the reason for the 36-mile speed limit and for periodic tire inspection."

Jeffers said he wanted to assure every American citizen "with all the earnestness at my command that gasoline rationing is vitally necessary" to conserve rubber needed for the war.

Rubber of which his life raft was constructed saved Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker in the Pacific as it has countless others, he pointed out.

The rubber director reminded his listeners that the Baruch report said gas rationing is the "only way" of saving rubber and must be nation-wide because it is "wholly a measure of rubber saving."

JOHN KENNEDY GAINS "A" FOR EFFORT TO FIGHT

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—Fourteen-year-old John M. Kennedy, whose patriotism was stronger than family ties, was back home today after three futile attempts to enlist with as many different Canadian units.

John, son of Martin J. Kennedy the congressman, left his home last Monday afternoon and casually took a bus for Montreal. Standing five feet nine inches in his stocking feet, and weighing 140 pounds, he felt that just merely reading about the heroic exploits of America's fighting men wasn't enough for him.

So when he figured that his age was against him despite his size and weight, he decided to follow the example of other youths who, "big for their age," chose to serve with our allies to the north.

But representative Kennedy, knowing the ambitions of his son in advance, notified Canadian authorities and when John tried to enlist in the Royal Canadian air force, giving his age as 17, he was politely refused. Similarly, fatherly rejections met his attempts to join the famous Black Watch regiment and the Fighting French forces organized in the dominion.

Finally, with the advice that he might best serve democracy by completing his education at Fordham university, John returned home yesterday just as casually as he left, exchanging greetings with elevator and switchboard operators on his return as though he had just gone around the corner.

THANKSGIVING COMES DAY LATE ON WEST COAST

SEATTLE, Nov. 27—Thousands of Seattle residents were to have their Thanksgiving turkey today, after a power failure disrupted service in widely separated sections of the Pacific northwest.

Service was interrupted yesterday just as many housewives were beginning to prepare the holiday meal, and those depending on electric stoves were without heat. Some families waited for power to be restored, while others gave up and ate their holiday meals at overcrowded restaurants.

Communication systems, radio stations and industrial plants were halted in Spokane, Wash., Portland, Ore., and other northwest communities. In some cities the power failure tied up street car service.

The interruption was caused by failure of a line between Seattle and the Grand Coulee power plant which overloaded other lines and blew out several automatic transfer switches.

THANKSGIVING PROVES QUIET EVENT

Most quiet Thanksgiving in many years was the term applied Friday by Circleville and Pickaway county law enforcement agencies. Neither city police nor sheriff's deputies were called once Thursday to make an arrest or investigate an accident of any nature. Not a single report of any kind was written into records of the two offices.

There was much automobile traffic on all highways through the county, but mishaps were conspicuous by their absence.

ATTENDS CONVENTION

Paul Helwigen, East Main street, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Helwigen, is in Columbus attending a Luther League convention held at Grace Lutheran church. He is a delegate of the Trinity Lutheran church league.

Ned Dresbach, president of the Scioto-Hocking Luther League federation, will attend the meeting Saturday.

WAYNE TAX SET

Wayne township tax rates have been established by the county budget commission, Wayne's being the last figure to be determined for 1943 taxation purposes. A delay was necessary when members of the township board were unable to get together, all other rates being over a week ago. The new rate will be $12.20, compared with $12.40 for 1942.

ENOUGH COFFEE FOR CITY NEEDS

Ration book No. 1 must apply for this book before December 15 at the city hall office, the rationing board warned Friday. No coffee can be obtained until this book is held by the consumer, the board stated.

Rationing officials pointed out that even though the consumer may have too much sugar on hand he must apply for the War Ration book No. 1 before December 15 in order to purchase and coffee. The first 16 of the numbers in book No. 1 apply to sugar purchases and numbers 16 to 28 to coffee purchases. No. 27 is to be torn off by the dealer when the consumer buys his next pound of coffee.

War Ration book No. 2, which will be used for other commodities, will not be issued to any person who does not have book No. 1.

BOY DROPS BIG TURKEY WITH SINGLE SHOT

Bobby Grubb, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Grubb, can take his place in the ranks of Circleville's crack shots.

Bobby is employed by Dwight Steele, produce dealer. Thanksgiving eve Mr. Steele was preparing to chop the noggin off a big turkey when Mr. Turkey decided he wasn't going to cooperate. He took to the air and found a perch in a high tree.

Young Grubb was called to climb after the turkey, but the turkey found another attractive limb on which to perch. Giving up the chase, the youth obtained a .22 rifle, and shot the fowl through the neck. His boss said the job was a complete one, the turkey being struck exactly where the ax would have been applied.

KIDNAPING TO BE CHARGED TO BABY SNATCHER

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Nov. 27—

State's Attorney Harry A. Hall announced today he would file a charge of kidnaping against Mrs. Anne Tyrrell Lussier, accused in the abduction of 3½-month-old Gary Botsford, as soon as he had questioned the young woman on some points in her story.

He said he would recommend that she be held in jail of not less than $20,000.

Gary, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Botsford, was kidnapped Tuesday from in front of a Waukegan store, which his mother had entered to make a purchase, and was recovered 24 hours later in Zion, Ill.

Mrs. Lussier when arrested was about to leave the home of her sister, Mrs. Beryl Holcomb, carrying Gary in a large leather handbag. She had told her sister and the sister's husband, Andrew, that the baby was hers, and authorities absolved the Holcombs of any knowledge of the kidnaping.

State's Attorney Hall said Mrs. Lussier admitted burning the baby's clothes and procuring a new outfit for him. He added: "The fact that Mrs. Lussier destroyed the child's clothes is an important point. I believe it indicates an attempt to conceal the baby's identity."

Her first explanation of the kidnaping was that "I wanted a baby of my own." She said her husband, whom she named as Alfred Lussier, was a sergeant in the army, stationed at Fort Knox, Ky.

GAS ALLOTMENT APPEAL RIGHT GRANTED BY ODT

Emergency Ration May Be Attained, John Boggs
Is Informed

PROCEDURE OUTLINED
Regular Appeal Forms To Be Sent To County As Soon As Available

Right to obtain emergency gasoline allotments and also right to appeal in mileage and gallons of motor fuel permitted by the Office of Defense Transportation are granted to Pickaway countians, according to a communication received Friday by John G. Boggs, chairman of the Pickaway county U. S. Department of Agriculture War Board.

The USDA has not yet received necessary blanks for handling such appeals and for granting emergency rations, but announcement will be made as soon as necessary papers arrive, Mr. Boggs said.

Many Pickaway countians have complained to rationing officials that amounts permitted them are far short of being sufficient for operation of vital vehicles, including trucks and cars used for hauling milk and other farm products to market. It is for these persons that the emergency ruling is being announced. Allotments were determined by the ODT office in Detroit.

The following communication was received by Mr. Boggs:

"With reference to certificates of war necessity on which it appears an obvious error has been made in allotments for mileage and gallons of motor fuel, and more specifically, where the amount of motor fuel granted is insufficient for the operation of the vehicle which the certificate covers for a period of thirty days, the following procedure has been agreed upon:

"The holder of the certificate will present same to the local war price and rationing board, stating to such board that it is obvious an error has occurred and therefore he would like to secure a temporary transport ration of motor fuel in such amount as will permit him to operate for essential purposes up to and including December 31, 1942.

"The local board will issue a motor fuel ration in the amount requested and such amount will be deducted at a later date from the total gallons of motor fuel allowed on a corrected certificate of war necessity.

"The local war price and rationing board will direct such applicants who are operating farm vehicles to the chairman of the county USDA war board, who is chairman of the county farm transportation committee, for the purpose of making an appeal for a corrected certificate of war necessity. The regular ODT appeal forms will be sent to the county farm transportation committee as rapidly as possible.

"The issuance of the temporary transport ration in such cases will give sufficient time for the county farm transportation committee to obtain information from the certificate holder and permit the CFTC to consider the facts set forth by the applicant in his appeal and make an intelligent recommendation to the district office of the office of defense transportation for a corrected certificate of war necessity.

"The ODT district office shall be advised of the facts in the case and will (a) concur in the decision of the county farm transportation committee and adjust the certificate of war necessity accordingly, or (b) communicate with the CFTC and reach an agreement as to the proper adjustment which should be made.

"This appeal procedure will also be followed in cases of appeal where a temporary transport ration is not involved. Full details should reach the CFTC not later than December 1, so as to give them time to do their part of the job."

CIVIL SERVICE BOARD DELAYS CHIEF'S RETURN

Although ordered in a letter from Safety Director E. W. Weiler to return to work on November 15, Fire Chief Talmer Wise, East Franklin street, is still waiting for orders from the Circleville Civil Service commission to assume his position.

The chief, granted a leave of absence to take government employment at Pearl Harbor after the Japanese attack, returned home two weeks ago at the conclusion of his six month period of enlistment for ordnance duty. He expected to return to work at that time and received the order from Safety Director Weiler to that effect.

However, the chief was told by the commission that he could not return until ordered by its members. The commission granted him his leave of absence, which was for the duration plus six months if necessary.

Wise has furnished the commission with a doctor's certificate declaring his physical condition to be good, and has also supplied his discharge papers.

However, he is still waiting for the commission to act. Its members are Iley Greeno, E. L. Tolbert and Vernon Hawkes.

Fireman Robert Wolf has been serving as acting fire chief during Mr. Wise's leave.

Modified Interpretations On Connection of Gas-Fired Heating Equipment More Lenient to Residential Users

Several days ago our Company advertised its interpretations of recent additional limitations of War Production Board Order L-31 affecting the connection to gas lines of certain types of gas-fired heating equipment on and after November 30th. After discussions with the War Production Board Office, we are glad to announce considerable modification of these interpretations so that many residential users of gas heating equipment will be less inconvenienced through moving or replacing their equipment. The following are the new interpretations of limitations affecting the connection of gas-fired heating equipment to the lines of residential premises on and after November 30, 1942:

The new limitations do not affect the use of gas-fired equipment already connected to the lines as long as it remains installed at the same address.

No ADDITIONAL gas-fired heating equipment—including radiant heaters, conversion burners, etc.—may be connected to the lines, but REPLACEMENT equipment of this kind and size may be installed at the same premise. (Gas furnace may not replace gas-fired boiler, radiant heaters may not replace circulating gas heater, etc. even though the capacity is not increased.)

No gas-fired space heating equipment may be connected at a new address unless equipment of like kind and size was in use by former occupant.

No heating equipment not using gas on the date effective may be converted to the use of gas as a fuel.

Owners of rental property who furnish gas-fired space heaters for the property may permit new tenants to use the equipment as part of the rented property. If the rental property is not so equipped by the owner, but previous tenant had installed and used such equipment, a new tenant would be permitted installation and use of similar equipment.

Limitation order L-31 places additional limitations on non-residential equipment of all types. Further information may be secured at our local office by this class of consumers.

Regular Appeal Forms To Be Sent To County As Soon As Available

Right to obtain emergency gasoline allotments and also right to appeal in mileage and gallons of motor fuel permitted by the Office of Defense Transportation are granted to Pickaway county, according to a communication received Friday by John G. Boggs, chairman of the Pickaway county U. S. Department of Agriculture War Board.

The USDA has not yet received necessary blanks for handling such appeals and for granting emergency rations, but announcement will be made as soon as necessary papers arrive, Mr. Boggs said.

Many Pickaway counties have complained to rationing officials that amounts permitted them are far short of being sufficient for operation of vital vehicles, including trucks and cars used for hauling milk and other farm products to market. It is for these persons that the emergency ruling is being announced. Allotments were determined by the ODT office in Detroit.

The following communication was received by Mr. Boggs: "With reference to certificates of war necessity on which it appears an obvious error has been made in allotments for mileage and gallons of motor fuel, and more specifically, where the amount of motor fuel granted is insufficient for the operation of the vehicle which the certificate covers for a period of thirty days, the following procedure has been agreed upon:

"The holder of the certificate will present same to the local war price and rationing board, stating to such board that it is obvious an error has occurred and therefore he would like to secure a temporary transport ration of motor fuel in such amount as will permit him to operate for essential purposes up to and including December 31, 1942.

"The local board will issue a motor fuel ration in the amount requested and such amount will be deducted at a later date from the total gallons of motor fuel allowed on a corrected certificate of war necessity.

"The local war price and rationing board will direct such applicants who are operating farm vehicles to the chairman of the county USDA war board, who is chairman of the county farm transportation committee, for the purpose of making an appeal for a corrected certificate of war necessity. The regular ODT appeal forms will be sent to the county farm transportation committees as rapidly as possible.

"The issuance of the temporary transport ration in such cases will give sufficient time for the county farm transportation committee to obtain information from the certificate holder and permit the CFTC to consider the facts set forth by the applicant in his appeal and make an intelligent recommendation to the district office of the office of defense transportation for a corrected certificate of war necessity.

"The ODT district office shall be advised of the facts in the case and will (a) concur in the decision of the county farm transportation committee and adjust the certificate of war necessity accordingly, or (b) communicate with the CFTC and reach an agreement as to the proper adjustment which should be made.

"This appeal procedure will also be followed in cases of appeal where a temporary transport ration is not involved. Full details should reach the CFTC not later than December 1, so as to give them time to do their part of the job."

CIVIL SERVICE BOARD DELAYS CHIEF'S RETURN

Although ordered in a letter from Safety Director E. W. Weiler to return to work on November 15, Fire Chief Talmer Wise, East Franklin street, is still waiting for orders from the Circleville Civil Service commission to assume his position.

The chief, granted a leave of absence to take government employment at Pearl Harbor after the Japanese attack, returned home two weeks ago at the conclusion of his six month period of enlistment for ordnance duty. He expected to return to work at that time and received the order from Safety Director Weiler to that effect.

However, the chief was told by the commission that he could not return until ordered by its members. The commission granted him his leave of absence, which was for the duration plus six months if necessary.

Wise has furnished the commission with a doctor's certificate declaring his physical condition to be good, and has also supplied his discharge papers.

However, he is still waiting for the commission to act. Its members are Iley Greeno, E. L. Tolbert and Vernon Hawkes.

Fireman Robert Wolf has been serving as acting fire chief during Mr. Wise's leave.

Modified Interpretations On Connection of Gas-Fired Heating Equipment More Lenient to Residential Users

Several days ago our Company advertised its interpretations of recent additional limitations of War Production Board Order L-31 affecting the connection to gas lines of certain types of gas-fired heating equipment on and after November 30th. After discussions with the War Production Board Office, we are glad to announce considerable modification of these interpretations so that many residential users of gas heating equipment will be less inconvenienced through moving or replacing their equipment. The following are the new interpretations of limitations affecting the connection of gas-fired heating equipment to the lines of residential premises on and after November 30, 1942:

- The new limitations do not affect the use of gas-fired equipment already connected to the lines as long as it remains installed at the same address.
- No ADDITIONAL gas-fired heating equipment—including radiant heaters, conversion burners, etc.—may be connected to the lines, but REPLACEMENT equipment of this kind and size may be installed at the same premise. (Gas furnace may not replace gas-fired boiler, radiant heaters may not replace circulating gas heater, etc. even though the capacity is not increased.)
- No gas-fired space heating equipment may be connected at a new address unless equipment of like kind and size was in use by former occupant.
- No heating equipment not using gas on the date effective may be converted to the use of gas as a fuel.
- Owners of rental property who furnish gas-fired space heaters for the property may permit new tenants to use the equipment as part of the rented property. If the rental property is not so equipped by the owner, but previous tenant had installed and used such equipment, a new tenant would be permitted installation and use of similar equipment.

Limitation order L-31 places additional limitations on non-residential equipment of all types. Further information may be secured at our local office by this class of consumers.

OPEN LETTERS

TO BOYS, GIRLS

YOUNGSTERS: Losing rubbers at school, getting them mixed up, coming home with one good and one poor one, has always seemed one of the inalienable rights of childhood. Teacher made him do one example over again, and when he got there that was all there were. Individual lockers were supposed to obviate chronic rubber and mitten trouble, but the mix-ups managed to survive. Now the children must take greater care of the precious wool and rubber. Grown-ups, too, cannot drop into a store anywhere and buy a new pair of rubbers or galoshes, choosing color and style from hundreds of pairs in stock. Only too often, rubbers are all gone. The OPA suggests that rubbers be stored, when not in use, in a cool, dark place, after being stuffed with paper. They should not be put near radiators, registers or stoves. Too much heat dries out the rubber and makes it crack. It suggests, also, swapping rubbers. An extra pair of adult size may be turned in to a neighbor in exchange for a pair of out-grown children's footgear.

TO HUNTERS

SPORTSMEN: The present hunting season has been an excellent one from many standpoints. There have been few injuries, none of the reported mishaps being serious. There have been fewer violations of game laws than usual, despite the fact that two efficient conservation officers have been touring the county daily since prior to start of the hunting season. Hunters this year seem to have been more careful than usual in protecting farm property. There have been few reports of damage in rural areas; there have been few arrests for trespassing. Clarence Francis and Irvin Patrick, assigned to work in Pickaway county this year, have been doing a swell job, one which earns congratulations.

CIRCUITEER.

TO VOLUNTEER RATIONERS

ALL: Registration for sugar rationing and other jobs you have done so well since the government started into the rationing business were mere child's play compared with the work you have been called on to do this week in issuing supplemental gasoline rationing coupons to Pickaway counties who have been requesting them. You were swamped on the first day of the registration, and the crowds appearing before you have not let up a bit. It is your duty to issue a supplemental coupon book and stamp to almost any one who asks for one. You have been instructed to follow the wishes of the motorist. The regulation period will come later when the neighbor of a man who has a 'B' or 'C' card begins wondering how he was able to get it, and why. Maybe the neighbor has only an 'A' book, and possibly that is enough gasoline for him. But he might think that his neighbor is getting too much gasoline. Then will come the type of regulation that will make many persons sorry they applied for supplemental permits instead of being satisfied with the amount a private car should be using. Thought for the day might be: "Think before you apply for a supplemental ration permit."

CIRCUITEER.

TO MERCHANTS

FRIENDS: Here is just another note which I'd suggest that you read. A blackout is being scheduled here December 7, and it is going to be necessary that every light in the Circleville business district be turned out. There will be no exceptions; every light must be out from the time the blackout signal is sounded until the all-clear resounds. It might be to the advantage of all of you to know what you are supposed to do. Uncle Sam, a mighty lenient fellow at times, is not so easy to get along with at other times, and during a blackout is one of these times. He expects every one of you to comply with regulations, and he doesn't mean if or maybe. Get those lights out. Many persons in scattered parts of the country are being fined and some are facing jail sentences for failing to cooperate. It is possible that they did not know what to do, and that is something that should be avoided here. Every man who operates a business owes it to himself and to his community to be aware of all regulations concerning blackouts. Circleville Civilian Defense has set up a division to handle business district blackouts and it is expected to function. Business men are also expected to cooperate by attending any meetings called for instruction purposes.

CIRCUITEER.

TO EMERGENCY POLICE

MEN: Pickaway county rural areas was given added protection the other day when Sheriff Charles Radcliff disclosed that the auxiliary police unit being trained under his department is ready for any emergency which may arise. More than 30 men have been hard at work for several weeks, devoting much time to their training and showing a great interest in the work being planned under Civilian Defense regulations. And now the county is ready to reap the benefits from this unit. In case of any emergency, the auxiliary police force will be ready to go to town. It is trained for police, traffic and other forms of duty, and all its members are ready to swing into action at the call of the sheriff's office. My hat is off to the members of the unit for their preparation. In Circleville, Police Chief W. F. McCrady is preparing to start drilling the auxiliary unit which will serve the county seat. He is lining up many men to serve the unit, and in the next few days his call for beginning of the training period may be issued. After the city unit is readied for action the district's emergency police forces will be complete ones. The sheriff's unit, the American Legion auxiliary highway patrol organization comprised of World War veterans, and the city organization will give the district excellent protection.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

WASHINGTON.—Italy is no serious problem. It didn't want to be an Axis power any of the time. Benito Mussolini wanted it to be, but his country never was a bit enthusiastic over its partnership with the Germans. Today it's outright hostile to the affiliation. Probably Benito himself regrets being involved with Herr Hitler.

Oh, the Italians'll fold up on small provocation. The democracies will scarcely need to feel sore at them for having been juggled into the Axis. Benito personally is too small a potato now to convict of anything worse than petty larceny or thievery.

Germany remains to be licked. We are entitled to be angry at the Germans. Still, they are not all Nazis. Once they are squelched it will be something of a puzzle to dispose of them.

Adolf, individually, will be easy enough to attend to. In fact, it is likely that he will arrange matters on his own account, with poison or some such thing, in typical German fashion, as soon as he recognizes his finish. If he neglects to do so, his fellow Teutons are pretty apt to kill him with no outside assistance. But for the rank and file? They won't be possible to obliterate. It won't do to let them recede for 20 years, as after the last war, and then tear loose again, like this time. Something permanent will have to be done to them. What will it be? It really won't do to massacre so many, and they don't quite all deserve it, either.

Won't Stay Split

The suggestion is made that they should be split into a lot of peewee little governments—too small, each, to be dangerous. The difficulty with that scheme is that the subdivided states would be sure to federate.

The idea is advanced that central Europe should be chopped up into a lot of small areas, to be parcelled out to rulership by governments like the Scandinavians, the Balkans and the Near East—empires—a comparatively decent, peaceable bunch, that might be trusted on into perpetuity. Yet nobody really believes that this solution would fill the bill indefinitely. It generally is agreed that the Teutons would reorganize themselves ultimately and resume the warpath.

They are a virile and cohesive aggregation. It was supposed they were smashed at the end of 1918, and now look at them!

Democratic statesmanship does not say much about this post-war prospect, but it will have to worry about it at the later peace table.

There's this, though, to recognize as a quality of European-American statesmanship: warfare and diplomacy. Racially, to a certain extent, they understand one another. They're all Caucasians.

If an American regards a German as a human tapeworm, he knows upon what grounds he so regards him. And reciprocally. That mutual understanding does not exist as between Occidentals and Orientals.

The Chinese do not count in the present situation, because, as it happens, they are our allies in the existing state of affairs.

Europe? Yeah. The western world—Europe's creation. All okay! They unite. Europe and Asia? Maybe these cannot merge so easily. But, if they can, how about getting the colored races into the combination?

If this thing's to be world-wide, aren't they essential to it? I think so.

I'm developing a strong suspicion that the African races are as good as anybody.

It appears that the Japs are as worse as anybody.

We don't hate the Japs because they are yellow. We hate them because they are treacherous, murderous devils, not because they are Mongolian. The Chinese are as Mongolian as the Japs are, but it happens that the Chinks are pro-democratic, whereas the Japs are totalitarian.

Why not a similar attitude toward our assimilated Africans?

Embattled Love

BY LORENA CARLETON

CHAPTER ONE

IT WAS dark in San Francisco. Not black-dark with a blackout, because this was only 1941. Armistice of 1941, a holiday that wobbled with fear. It was dark in San Francisco, but white-dark with a thick, thick fog.

The young man creeping gingerly through shrouding darkness was whistling the A-Minor Chopin Valse Brillante. Partly to apprise other creepers of his proximity, in case they were foolish enough to be out and about. Partly because it was the only piano composition he had managed to remember from a $20,000 dollar musical education in Baltimore, Boston, Paris and Vienna conservatories.

But mainly he was whistling because he was so miserable that Chopin's melancholy theme intensified his misery and filled him with a glory that, incongruously, resembled happiness. At any rate, all he wanted was to keep edging his way through the fog and absorb his own thoughts to the accompaniment of his whistled dirge.

For that reason he was angry when he collided with the woman and knocked her to the wet sidewalk, although he did not know it was a woman until he heard the sound of muffled feminine sobbing.

"Get up!" he said with churlish impatience. He made no move to assist her. "I'll buy you a drink or a dinner or whatever it is you want. You must want something or you wouldn't have bumped into me."

He could hear her scrambling to her feet and could make out a blurred shape standing near him. "I bumped into YOU? I didn't bump into you. You bumped into me. You fat old fool!" she cried.

With slow, rude insistence the man's voice froze into that of the woman. "You deliberately bumped into me. You couldn't have helped knowing I was there. Didn't you hear me whistling?"

"I heard something that sounded like a sick kitten."

"Sick kitten?" he exploded. "Say you, whoever you are, I've studied music for almost ten years."

"Then you'd better go back and study some more—still, I don't know. One can't expect the impossible."

The man could sense the insulting shrug that accentuated the insulting words and his cheeks became a mixture of ice and flame. For some absurd, unwelcome reason the woman's jibes had affected him.

Delayed resentment rushed from him. I am not a fat old fool, I weigh exactly 162 pounds and I'm only 24 years old.

"Well," she drawled with meaning. And she laughed.

When she did the man realized, whatever her appearance, she was not old. Her laughter, though taunting, was too beautiful for anything but youth. But it also was sad. It affected him like those glorious ponderous chords of the Tchaikovsky B-Flat Concerto, before transposition and the intimacies of juke-boxes had accomplished their ruin. Her feet began an explanatory shuffle and the man knew she was leaving.

He called out sharply: "You've no business here. It's dangerous here on the waterfront." The shuffling steps did not slacken. "Hey!" he yelled, determined to make her wait for him.

"You'd better be careful," she answered. "I might run into you and knock myself down again."

Her mockery bothered him. "Please wait," he begged. "At least let me apologize." The shuffling noise ceased. When he could see again the misty outline of her figure, he began to speak rapidly. "I behaved like a dog. I'm always behaving badly. But tonight I'm worse than usual. There was a break in his voice that made him sound like a small boy confessing a misdemeanor. "I can't help it. I'm so wretched. I'm so wretched I wish I could die."

"You could!" the girl inserted bluntly.

The words shook the breath from the man for an instant. "Well," he managed finally, "I must say you're unsympathetic. I'm afraid you don't realize how unhappy I am."

"Get up!" he said with churlish impatience, making no move to assist her.

"My heart is a little knocked out of shape, too."

The man persisted: "But I've lost my sweetheart."

"And I've lost mine."

Her voice was anger, cloaking such distress, that the man forgot both his own anger and distress for a second. "Poor kid," he murmured, as if speaking to himself.

"Poor, poor kid." There was a rasping sound; quick flame from a match swept over the girl's face.

"Pretty, too. Very pretty," he said without emotion. "I can't imagine your being jilted."

"Please let me—"

The man swept aside her interruption. "In fact, you're a lovely girl. Sparkling eyes—gray, aren't they? Thick lashes. I like your dramatic black eyebrows. Ice cream skin and a mouth like the reddish hibiscus on my ranch near Honolulu. I appreciate all your beauty."

He rushed to say, "With the utmost detachment, naturally." The flare of light died. "Yes, you are very attractive."

You too, thought the girl, with equal disinterest, remembering that brief match-lit inventory. Rusty-toned wavy hair, crucified blue eyes, friendly freckles on a slightly imperfect nose, a straight unsmiling mouth, a chin, stubborn as a piece of rock.

Attractive, yes. And intoxicated. In an angry morose way. Still, what difference did it make? Let each person cure trouble with individual medicine. Let him drink. Let her walk, with purposeful intent, toward the water. The thought started her walking again.

The man began to keep pace. "What is your name?"

"Paige." The girl ripped out the word. "Please go away."

"My name is Rusty. Restwick Carnes III. Rusty."

"It really doesn't matter."

"It does to a great many people. People wanting to spend my money."

The girl gave a peevish groan. "Stop boasting. I'm not impressed. I've never seen a guy with two dimes to rub together who didn't think he was rich."

Restwick Carnes III chuckled. "You sound just like Abby."

"Perhaps I am like Abby. I don't like you either."

The man gave the same dry, unamused chuckle. "You are mixed up. I'm not talking about my flance. Abby is a sweet old pal of mine, eternally 49. About 60, I guess. Has whitish hair and bent knees and fishhook lines at the sides of her mouth and her bones crackle like popcorn. She wears nutty dresses and hats you could take off any minute and use to ski on. She lives in a demoniac house near Diamond Head and has a still worse one over in Kaneohe. Sit down. I want to tell you all about my friend Abby."

Paige wondered if the man could be insane. Totally upset, she found herself sitting, as he had suggested. Sitting on a cold wet curb, shuddering in the foggy beginning of dawn. Still it was better to be with an absurd man and endure his chatter than to be alone, wanting to scream. For she did. She wanted to scream and scream for Denison and bring him back to her as she had seen him so often. Teeth shining in that sweet smile, eyes absolutely ablaze with too much bravado, as he swung into the cockpit of a plane that appeared so competent on land and so tiny in the sky.

"Abby's house is a regular asylum—enormous and sprawling, with polished teakwood floors and Chinese and French provincial and bamboo furniture all mixed up. The one in Kaneohe I'm talking about. The lanai has four hickies—sofas, you know—glass bowls of crazy fish, cages of birds and the biggest collection of sea shells I've ever seen. Dear Abby is nuts."

"A relative?"

"I like that question," the man mumbled groggily. "It proves you are listening. No, Abby is no relative. That's why I love her. The Carnes. Paige, are not just a name in Hawaii. They're an epidemic. Grandfather started it by being an early settler and nabbing a lot of land. There are about 50 families of Carnes. I'm always running into cousins I don't know."

His voice trailed on and on. Paige found herself not listening. She realized that she had not been for several minutes. The man was saying, "So I told Eugenia I'd marry the first girl I saw. I made the taxi driver let me out in a deserted section where I was sure not to see a girl. I intended to be safe from my own foolishness. But you see I did find a girl. You're it," he said with significance. "You are the first girl I saw."

A DAY of truly "devastating" events, in its varied implications, is indicated by a most intriguing array of planetary configurations, at once benign and ominous. The emphasis will be found on the thrilling, romantic, festive as well as fatal fascinations of diverse and dangerous forms. There may be promising heart interests, yet the way seems beset with a slight menace of regret, sorrow, separation, disruption.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves hurled into a year of circumstances—breath-taking, dramatic and of high romantic adventure, in which joy, festivity, celebrations, brilliant courtships and weddings, travel, sudden upheavals and adventures, are paralleled by quite as devastating sorrows, uprootings, estrangements and unprecedented visitations. To avert mingling such transcendent joy with deep sorrow may require ceaseless vigilance as to accident, rash, irregular or unconventional conduct. In any case there may be public honors, esteem and approbation.

A child born on this day may be expected to have a spectacular career. Brilliant, ingenious, audacious, unpredictable, with much warmth and color of heart and mentality, it may shine as a hero.

Travel by passenger autos in 1940 was about seven times the mileage of all other means of transportation combined.

OPEN LETTERS

TO BOYS, GIRLS

YOUNGSTERS: Losing rubbers at school, getting them mixed up, coming home with one good and one poor one, has always seemed one of the inalienable rights of childhood. Teacher made him do one example over again, and when he got there that was all there were. Individual lockers were supposed to obviate chronic rubber and mitten trouble, but the mix-ups managed to survive. Now the children must take greater care of the precious wool and rubber. Grown-ups, too, cannot drop into a store anywhere and buy a new pair of rubbers or galoshes, choosing color and style from hundreds of pairs in stock. Only too often, rubbers are all gone. The OPA suggests that rubbers be stored, when not in use, in a cool, dark place, after being stuffed with paper. They should not be put near radiators, registers or stoves. Too much heat dries out the rubber and makes it crack. It suggests, also, swapping rubbers. An extra pair of adult size may be turned in to a neighbor in exchange for a pair of out-grown children's footgear.

CIRCUITEER.

TO HUNTERS

SPORTSMEN: The present hunting season has been an excellent one from many standpoints. There have been few injuries, none of the reported mishaps being serious. There have been fewer violations of game laws than usual, despite the fact that two efficient conservation officers have been touring the county daily since prior to start of the hunting season. Hunters this year seem to have been more careful than usual in protecting farm property. There have been few reports of damage in rural areas; there have been few arrests for trespassing. Clarence Francis and Irvin Patrick, assigned to work in Pickaway county this year, have been doing a swell job, one which earns congratulations.

CIRCUITEER.

TO VOLUNTEER RATIONERS

ALL: Registration for sugar rationing and other jobs you have done so well since the government started into the rationing business were mere child's play compared with the work you have been called on to do this week in issuing supplemental gasoline rationing coupons to Pickaway county who have been requesting them. You were swamped on the first day of the registration, and the crowds appearing before you have not let up a bit. It is your duty to issue a supplemental coupon book and stamp to almost any one who asks for one. You have been instructed to follow the wishes of the motorist. The regulation period will come later when the neighbor of a man who has a 'B' or 'C' card begins wondering how he was able to get it, and why. Maybe the neighbor has only an 'A' book, and possibly that is enough gasoline for him. But he might think that his neighbor is getting too much gasoline. Then will come the type of regulation that will make many persons sorry they applied for supplemental permits instead of being satisfied with the amount a private car should be using. Thought for the day might be: "Think before you apply for a supplemental ration permit."

CIRCUITEER.

TO MERCHANTS

FRIENDS: Here is just another note which I'd suggest that you read. A blackout is being scheduled here December 7, and it is going to be necessary that every light in the Circleville business district be turned out. There will be no exceptions; every light must be out from the time the blackout signal is sounded until the all-clear resounds. It might be to the advantage of all of you to know what you are supposed to do. Uncle Sam, a mighty lenient fellow at times, is not so easy to get along with at other times, and during a blackout is one of these times. He expects every one of you to comply with regulations, and he doesn't mean if or maybe. Get those lights out. Many persons in scattered parts of the country are being fined and some are facing jail sentences for failing to cooperate. It is possible that they did not know what to do, and that is something that should be avoided here. Every man who operates a business owes it to himself and to his community to be aware of all regulations concerning blackouts. Circleville Civilian Defense has set up a division to handle business district blackouts and it is expected to function. Business men are also expected to cooperate by attending any meetings called for instruction purposes.

CIRCUITEER.

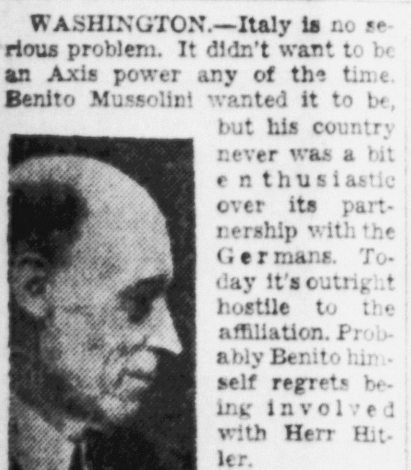

TO EMERGENCY POLICE

MEN: Pickaway county rural areas was given added protection the other day when Sheriff Charles Radcliff disclosed that the auxiliary police unit being trained under his department is ready for any emergency which may arise. More than 30 men have been hard at work for several weeks, devoting much time to their training and showing a great interest in the work being planned under Civilian Defense regulations. And now the county is ready to reap the benefits from this unit. In case of any emergency, the auxiliary police force will be ready to go to town. It is trained for police, traffic and other forms of duty, and all its members are ready to swing into action at the call of the sheriff's office. My hat is off to the members of the unit for their preparation. In Circleville, Police Chief W. F. McCrady is preparing to start drilling the auxiliary unit which will serve the county seat. He is lining up many men to serve the unit, and in the next few days his call for beginning of the training period may be issued. After the city unit is readied for action the district's emergency police forces will be complete ones. The sheriff's unit, the American Legion auxiliary highway patrol organization comprised of World War veterans, and the city organization will give the district excellent protection.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

Charles P. Stewart

WASHINGTON.—Italy is no serious problem. It didn't want to be an Axis power any of the time. Benito Mussolini wanted it to be, but his country never was a bit enthusiastic over its partnership with the Germans. Today it's outright hostile to the affiliation. Probably Benito himself regrets being involved with Herr Hitler.

Oh, the Italians will fold up on small provocation. The democracies will scarcely need to feel sore at them for having been juggled into the Axis. Benito personally is too small a potato now to convict of anything worse than petty larceny or thievery.

Germany remains to be licked. We are entitled to be angry at the Germans. Still, they are not all Nazis. Once they are squelched it will be something of a puzzle to dispose of them.

Adolf, individually, will be easy enough to attend to. In fact, it is likely that he will arrange matters on his own account, with poison or some such thing, in typical German fashion, as soon as he recognizes his finish. If he neglects to do so, his fellow Teutons are pretty apt to kill him with no outside assistance.

But for the rank and file? They won't be possible to obliterate. It won't do to let them recede for 20 years, as after the last war, and then tear loose again, like this time. Something permanent will have to be done to them. What will it be? It really won't do to massacre so many, and they don't quite all deserve it, either.

Won't Stay Split

The suggestion is made that they should be split into a lot of peewee little governments—too small, each, to be dangerous. The difficulty with that scheme is that the sub-divided states would be sure to federate.

The idea is advanced that central Europe should be chopped up into a lot of small areas, to be parcelled out to rulership by governments like the Scandinavians, the Balkans and the Near East—each a comparatively decent, peaceable bunch, that might be trusted on into perpetuity. Yet nobody really believes that this solution would fill the bill indefinitely. It generally is agreed that the Teutons would reorganize themselves ultimately and resume the warpath.

They are a virile and cohesive aggregation. It was supposed they were smashed at the end of 1918, and now look at them!

Democratic statesmanship does not say much about this post-war prospect, but it will have to worry about it at the later peace table.

There's this, though, to recognize as a quality of European-American statesmanship: warfare and diplomacy. Racially, to a certain extent, they understand one another. They're all Caucasian. If an American regards a German as a human tapeworm, he knows upon what grounds he so regards him. And reciprocally.

That mutual understanding does not exist as between Occidentals and Orientals.

The Chinese do not count in the present situation, because, as it happens, they are our allies in the existing state of affairs.

Europe? Yeah. The western world—Europe's creation.

All okay! They unite. Europe and Asia? Maybe these cannot merge so easily.

But, if they can, how about getting the colored races into the combination?

If this thing's to be world-wide, aren't they essential to it? I think so.

I'm developing a strong suspicion that the African races are as good as anybody.

It appears that the Japs are as worse as anybody.

We don't hate the Japs because they are yellow. We hate them because they are treacherous, murderous devils and not because they are Mongolian. The Chinese are as Mongolian as the Japs are, but it happens that the Chinks are pro-democratic, whereas the Japs are totalitarian.

Why not a similar attitude toward our assimilated Africans?

Embattled Love

BY LORENA CARLETON

CHAPTER ONE

IT WAS dark in San Francisco. Not black-dark with a blackout, because this was only 1941. Armistice of 1941, a holiday that wobbled with fear. It was dark in San Francisco, but white-dark with a thick, thick fog.

The young man creeping gingerly through shrouding darkness was whistling the A-Minor Chopin Valse Brillante. Partly to apprise other creepers of his proximity, in case they were foolish enough to be out and about. Partly because it was the only piano composition he had managed to remember from a $20,000 dollar musical education in Baltimore, Boston, Paris and Vienna conservatories.

But mainly he was whistling because he was so miserable that Chopin's melancholy theme intensified his misery and filled him with a glory that, inconspicuously, resembled happiness. At any rate, all he wanted was to keep edging his way through the fog and absorb his own thoughts to the accompaniment of his whistled dirge.

For that reason he was angry when he collided with the woman and knocked her to the wet sidewalk, although he did not know it was a woman until he heard the sound of muffled feminine sobbing.

"Get up!" he said with churlish impatience. He made no move to assist her. "I'll buy you a drink or a dinner or whatever it is you want. You must want something or you wouldn't have bumped into me."

He could hear her scrambling to her feet and could make out a blurred shape standing near him.

"I bumped into YOU? I didn't bump into you. You bumped into me. You fat old fool!" she cried.

With slow, rude insistence the man's voice froze into that of the woman. "You deliberately bumped into me. You couldn't have helped knowing I was there. Didn't you hear me whistling?"

"I heard something that sounded like a sick kitten."

"Sick kitten?" he exploded. "Say you, whoever you are, I've studied music for almost ten years."

"Then you'd better go back and study some more—still. I don't know. One can't expect the impossible."

The man could sense the insulting shrug that accented the insulting words and his cheeks became a mixture of ice and flame. For some absurd, unwelcome reason the woman's jibes had affected him.

Delayed resentment rushed from him. I am not a fat old fool. I weigh exactly 162 pounds and I'm only 24 years old.

"Well," she drawled with meaning. And she laughed.

When she did the man realized, whatever her appearance, she was not old. Her laughter, though taunting, was too beautiful for anything but youth. But it also was sad. It affected him like those glorious pensive chords of the Tchaikovsky B-Flat Concerto, before transposition and the intimacies of juke-boxes had accomplished utter ruin. Her feet began an explanatory shuffle and the man knew she was leaving.

He called out sharply. "You've no business here. It's dangerous here on the waterfront. The shouting steps did not slacken. "Hey!" he yelled, determined to make her wait for him.

"You'd better be careful," she answered. "I might run into you and knock myself down again."

Her mockery bothered him. "Please wait," he begged. "At least let me apologize. The shuffling noise ceased. When he could see again the misty outline of her figure, he began to speak rapidly. "I behaved like a dog. I'm always behaving badly. But tonight I'm worse than usual. That was a break in his voice that made him sound like a small boy confessing a misdemeanor. "I can't help it. I'm so wretched. I'm so wretched I wish I could die."

"You could!" the girl inserted bluntly.

The words shook the breath from the man for an instant. "Well," he managed finally, "I must say you're unsympathetic. I'm afraid you don't realize how unhappy I am."

"Get up!" he said with churlish impatience, making no move to assist her.

"My heart is a little knocked out of shape, too."

The man persisted: "But I've lost my sweetheart."

"And I've lost mine."

Her voice was anger, cloaking such distress, that the man forgot both his own anger and distress for a second. "Poor kid," he murmured, as if speaking to himself.

"Poor, poor kid." There was a rasping sound; quick flame from a match swept over the girl's face.

"Pretty, too. Very pretty," he said without emotion. "I can't imagine your being jilted."

"Please let me—"

The man swept aside her interruption. "In fact, you're a lovely girl. Sparkling eyes—gray, aren't they? Thick lashes. I like your dramatic black eyebrows. Ice cream skin and a mouth like the reddish hibiscus on my ranch near Honolulu. I appreciate all your beauty. He rushed to say, "With the utmost detachment, naturally." The flare of light died. "Yes, you are very attractive."

You too, thought the girl, with equal disinterest, remembering that brief match-lit inventory. Rusty-toned wavy hair, crucified blue eyes, friendly freckles on a slightly imperfect nose, a straight unsmiling mouth, a chin, stubborn as a piece of rock.

Attractive, yes. And intoxicated. In an angry morose way. Still, what difference did it make? Let each person cure trouble with individual medicine. Let him drink. Let her walk, with purposeful intent, toward the water. The thought started her walking again.

The man began to keep pace. Idly he asked, "What is your name?"

"Paige." The girl ripped out the word. "Please go away."

"My name is Rusty. Restwick Carnes III. Rusty."

"It really doesn't matter."

"It does to a great many people. People wanting to spend my money."

The girl gave a peevish groan. "Stop boasting. I'm not impressed. I've never seen a guy with two dimes to rub together who didn't think he was rich."

Restwick Carnes III chuckled. "You sound just like Abby."

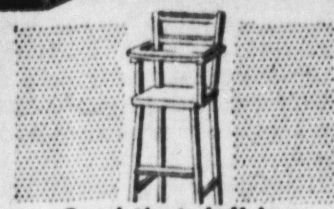

"Perhaps I am like Abby. I don't like you either."

The man gave the same dry, unamused chuckle. "You are mixed up. I'm not talking about my

Salary Ceiling Hurts Funds of Both Parties

BY DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—What the $25,000 ceiling on salaries is doing to both Democratic and Republican parties, especially the former, is something which makes the politicians weep. If the ceiling stays on for more than two years it will reduce campaign funds to $5 and $10 contributions from the rank and file—which in the end may be a good thing.

Most people don't know it, but one way corporations got around the ban on making gifts to a political party was to pay their president an extra large salary. Then he made the contribution personally. Thus if he got a salary of $175,000, about $50,000 might go to campaign funds or lobbying fees.

But now his salary is scaled to $25,000. Furthermore, political contributions are not deductible from income taxes.

The Republicans are in better shape than the Democrats because more of their big money boys come from groups which built up fortunes in the past and are living on investments. And unearned incomes have no $25,000 limit.

As a result of this financial debacle, the Democratic National Committee has dismissed 70 to 80 percent of its staff, has given up its palatial quarters in the Mayflower Hotel except for a few small rooms. Charley Michelson, veteran Democratic publicity genius whose salary long ago was fixed at $20,000, was quietly retired after 15 years of service. There is not enough money to pay him.

JAP PLANES DETERIORATE

U. S. experts now report that the Japs no longer are giving a first rate performance in the air. Something seems to have gone wrong. They are less formidable than at the start of the war.

This is evident in two ways. First, Jap pilots are not so good as they were, indicating a lot of pilots killed and a fault in the Japanese air training program.

Second, the number of planes are definitely smaller, indicating production difficulties.

To the experts looking not only at the day-by-day action but at the long-range trends, these factors are strongly heartening.

CAPITAL CHAFF

The man who had a lot to do with the Catholic Church's emphatic endorsement of Roosevelt's war policies was Myron Taylor, ambassador to the Vatican, who recently flew to Rome for an audience with the Pope. . . . Only a short time ago, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, the man with nine lives, was an ardent isolationist, opposed Roosevelt's pre-Pearl Harbor foreign policies. Since Pearl Harbor, he has been putting every ounce of energy behind the war. . . . One old Roosevelt friend who would emulate Rickenbacker, if called on to serve, is Joseph P. Kennedy, ex-Ambassador to England, who did a remarkable job in whipping the Securities and Exchange Commission into shape.

MORE RATIONING

The American consumer doesn't know it yet, but he will suffer far more as a result of the war than merely curtailment of such things as typewriters, refrigerators, automobiles, tires, butter and coffee.

Looming ahead is another shortage, created not by materials but by manpower.

WPB officials are preparing to break the news to the public, that as a result of the tremendous drain on manpower, articles and services we take for granted today will not be available a year or 18 months from now.

The clothing industry still employs thousands of men more than would be necessary if styles and types of clothing were reduced. The liquor store still delivers goods to your door. Thousands of miles were traveled this Fall on American railroads by college football teams and fans. Radio programs still invite children to send in for billboards or cowboy whips. These frills, and a thousand other things, must and will be dispensed with.

In short, life in America today is largely normal. But it will cease to be normal before the war is won.

NO GOOD-WILL PROMISES

On his recent trip to Brazil, Nelson Rockefeller visited a bath-tub plant in the city of Sao Paulo. Later in the same day he addressed a group of industrialists who demanded more materials from the U. S. A.

The young Coordinator handed out no suave talk, made no empty promises. Instead, he said:

"I have four brothers in the service, and I am not going to advocate diverting materials from equipping our soldiers, so that you may have it to build more bathtubs. No—not until you convert the bathtub plant to a plant for making more GASOGENIOS!"

Rockefeller was referring to the machines Brazilians use in lieu of gasoline. They are wood burning stoves, attached to the rear of a car, which produce a combustible gas, as a substitute for gasoline.

No country in Latin America has been so severely hit as Brazil by lack of gasoline.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

A Soviet official, bantering with a Lend-Lease official, suggested that U. S. aid should be distributed among her allies on the basis of the number of Germans each ally had killed. . . . The War Department now conserves metal by tying a shipping tag on a visitor's lapel, in place of former metal identification tags. . . . Ten-year President Roosevelt is entertaining two-year President Arroyo del Rio of Ecuador. Both have set long term records, for no recent President of Ecuador has remained in office as long as two years.

In the seven years before Arroyo took office, Ecuador had 13 Presidents. . . . Herbert Bayard Swope of the old New York World gives this advice to the War Department on press relations: "Between losing public confidence by suppressing information, and informing the enemy by publishing too much information, it is better to inform the enemy."

HAS SCORE TO SETTLE

MANSFIELD—There is one Mansfield that Japanese soldiers had better avoid, for he feels that he has old scores to settle. He is Charley Key Chin, first Mansfield Chinese to be ordered to army duty by a selective service board.

He has a wife and two children in China. The Japs ravaged his native province and prevented him from visiting his family. That, thinks Charley, is enough to make anyone want to fight.

23 MEMBERS OF GOPHER SQUAD TO SERVE U. S.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 27.—At least 23 members of Minnesota's 1942 football team were slated today to be in the armed forces when the 1943 season rolls around.

Of this number 19 already are in the Marine Reserve and have received notices to be ready on 24-hour call in March. This group includes six starters, Chuck Dellago, guard; Vic Kulbitski, fullback; Bob Solheim, center; Bill Baumgartner, end; Herb Hein, end, and Red Williams, halfback.

Halfback Joe Silovich will enter the Army at the end of the Fall term. Tackle Bill Aldworth and Guard Bob Sanders are due for induction in January and Halfback Dave Thomas will report for army air corps training in March.

BEN HOGAN IS VICTOR IN VARDON TROPHY TILT

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Although he is finished with competition for the duration, having joined a civilian flying school at Tulsa, Okla., Ben Hogan, top money winner and Vardon trophy holder for 1942, will not have his standing altered by future tournaments this year.

Finishing with 400 points in the Vardon trophy competition, and richer by $13,143, his victory was confirmed yesterday by Fred Corcoran, tournament manager for the Professional Golf Association.

In addition, he led in low scoring averages with 70.87, strokes though 64 rounds.

Byron Nelson took second place and Sam Snead, now in the Navy, took third.

ELEVEN COUNTY SOLDIERS SENT TO SOUTHLAND

Eleven Pickaway county men who have entered maintenance units of Uncle Sam's army after volunteering at Fort Hayes, Columbus, have been assigned to Camp Sutton, North Carolina, for basic training prior to transfer to important areas in which army equipment is used and must be kept in running condition.

Nearly all of the 11 chosen by the army for this work are trained in motor and vehicle maintenance work, either by schooling or by practical experience.

Included in the group are: Circleville: Jerome M. (Jay) Warner, Fred H. Boggs, Theodore Koch and Donald D. Miller.

New Holland: Frank J. Cook, Paul E. Minshall and Robert E. Minshall.

Williamsport: William B. Johnson, Charles Edwin Frazier and Robert N. Trego.

Laurelville: Terrance O. Smith.

The Pickaway county group of 11 men was included in a contingent of 48 men assigned to Camp Sutton by Fort Hayes officials to start training.

ALARM CLOCKS ADDED TO LIST OF IMPOSSIBLES

Add alarm clocks to your list of items impossible to buy, because you just can't buy one for any amount of money.

Heavy demand for alarm clocks, both of key-wind and electric types, has resulted in the shelves of all Circleville stores being cleaned of clocks of all shapes and forms. L. M. Butch Co. sold its last two electric clocks last week. It and the Brunner store have been without key-wind clocks for at least two months.

Calls are received each day for clocks, jewelers report. Even cheaper grades of clocks sold in stores other than jewelers have been cleared from all shelves.

Reason for the major shortage is that clock-making concerns are now engaged in production of materials needed for war. Precision instruments of all types are being made by the clock factories.

Alarm clocks in unprecedented numbers are being taken to the various jewelry replenishers, and this type of work promises to be unusually heavy for the duration.

ARMY FAVORED

The eyes of the East will also be centered on the Army-Navy game played for the first time before a crowd limited to the citizens of Annapolis. Army is heavily favored at odds of 3-1.

Lt. Commander Jimmy Crowley will lead a band of boys he used to coach at Fordham, plus other naval pre-flight cadets from North Carolina, against the Rams. The cadets are heavy choices in this one.

The mid West won't be disappointed.

Tulsa May Stand Alone As Only Unbeaten Club Of Major Importance

By Jack Mahon

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Old man football, that pesky runt who has tweaked the noses of the gridiron experts all season, toddles farther down that lonesome road to oblivion tomorrow but, before he does, may have one final fling at the expense of his faithful followers.

The fans of the nation, tottering badly enough after a 24-hour battle with kid turkey, awakened today to find the schedule makers had unwittingly provided one of the most appetizing grid menus of the entire year and one of the hardest for form followers to digest.

Before the sun goes down Saturday afternoon there is a very good possibility not one, but two, of the three unbeaten major teams in the country will be added to the mountainous pigskin scrap pile.

We're referring to Georgia Tech which must beat the flaming-mad Bulldogs of Georgia at Athens and Boston College, which, though highly favored, should have no picnic with their traditional rivals of Holy Cross.

Salary Ceiling Hurts Funds of Both Parties

BY DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—What the $25,000 ceiling on salaries is doing to both Democratic and Republican parties, especially the former, is something which makes the politicians weep. If the ceiling stays on for more than two years it will reduce campaign funds to $5 and $10 contributions from the rank and file—which in the end may be a good thing.

Most people don't know it, but one way corporations got around the ban on making gifts to a political party was to pay their president an extra large salary. Then he made the contribution personally. Thus if he got a salary of $175,000, about $50,000 might go to campaign funds or lobbying fees.

But now his salary is scaled to $25,000. Furthermore, political contributions are not deductible from income taxes.

The Republicans are in better shape than the Democrats because more of their big money boys come from groups which built up fortunes in the past and are living on investments. And unearned incomes have no $25,000 limit.

As a result of this financial debacle, the Democratic National Committee has dismissed 70 to 80 percent of its staff, has given up its palatial quarters in the Mayflower Hotel except for a few small rooms. Charley Michelson, veteran Democratic publicity genius whose salary long ago was fixed at $20,000, was quietly retired after 15 years of service. There is not enough money to pay him.

JAP PLANES DETERIORATE

U. S. experts now report that the Japs no longer are giving a first rate performance in the air. Something seems to have gone wrong. They are less formidable than at the start of the war.

This is evident in two ways, both highly significant for the future. First, Jap pilots are not so good as they were, indicating a lot of pilots killed and a fault in the Japanese air training program.

Second, the number of planes are definitely smaller, indicating production difficulties.

To the experts looking not only at the day-by-day action but at the long-range trends, these factors are strongly heartening.

CAPITAL CHAFF

The man who had a lot to do with the Catholic Church's emphatic endorsement of Roosevelt's war policies was Myron Taylor, ambassador to the Vatican, who recently flew to Rome for an audience with the Pope.

Only a short time ago, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, the man with nine lives, was an ardent isolationist, opposed Roosevelt's pre-Pearl Harbor foreign policies. Since Pearl Harbor, he has been putting every ounce of energy behind the war.

One old Roosevelt friend who would emulate Rickenbacker, if called on to serve, is Joseph P. Kennedy, ex-Ambassador to England, who did a remarkable job in whipping the Securities and Exchange Commission into shape.

MORE RATIONING

The American consumer doesn't know it yet, but he will suffer far more as a result of the war than merely curtailment of such things as typewriters, refrigerators, automobiles, tires, butter and coffee.

Looming ahead is another shortage, created not by materials but by manpower.

WPB officials are preparing to break the news to the public, that as a result of the tremendous drain on manpower, articles and services we take for granted today will not be available a year or 18 months from now.

The clothing industry still employs thousands of men more than would be necessary if styles and types of clothing were reduced. The liquor store still delivers goods to your door. Thousands of miles were traveled this fall on American railroads by college football teams and fans. Radio programs still invite children to send in for billboards or cowboy whips. These frills, and a thousand other things, must and will be dispensed with.

NO GOOD-WILL PROMISES

On his recent trip to Brazil, Nelson Rockefeller visited a bathtub plant in the city of Sao Paulo. Later in the same day he addressed a group of industrialists who demanded more materials from the U. S. A.

The young Coordinator handed out no suave talk, made no empty promises. Instead, he said: "I have four brothers in the service, and I am not going to advocate diverting materials from equipping our soldiers, so that you may have it to build more bathtubs. No—not until you convert the bathtub plant to a plant for making more GASOLINOS!"

Rockefeller was referring to the machines Brazilians use in lieu of gasoline. They are wood burning stoves, attached to the rear of a car, which produce a combustible gas as a substitute for gasoline.

No country in Latin America has been so severely hit as Brazil by lack of gasoline.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

A Soviet official, bantering with a Lend-Lease official, suggested that U. S. aid should be distributed among her allies on the basis of the number of Germans each ally had killed.

The War Department now conserves metal by tying a shipping tag on a visitor's lapel, in place of former metal identification tags.

Ten-year President Arroyo of Rio de Janeiro. Both have set long term records, for no recent President of Ecuador has remained in office as long as two years. In the seven years before Arroyo took office, Ecuador had 13 Presidents.

Herbert Bayard Swope of the old New York World gives this advice to the War Department on press relations: "Between losing public confidence by suppressing information, and informing the enemy by publishing too much information, it is better to inform the enemy."
